

Assistant Professor of Biology
Belmont University
Nashville, Tennessee

The Department of Biology at Belmont University is seeking applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2021.

Primary teaching responsibilities include undergraduate courses in Human Anatomy & Physiology. Additional teaching may include courses in Comparative Physiology, Functional Morphology, and/or upper-level courses in the candidate's area of expertise within the field of organismal biology. This position will also contribute to introductory biology courses for majors and non-majors. Full-time teaching load is 24 hours per academic year. The successful candidate will also develop a robust research program that incorporates undergraduate students and complements current research offerings. Additional responsibilities include academic advising, student mentoring, scholarly activity, and departmental, college and university service. Ph.D. is required. Prior teaching and post-doctoral experience is strongly preferred. As all Belmont undergraduates complete an innovative general education program with significant interdisciplinary components, Belmont University is particularly seeking applicants who can demonstrate the interest and ability to work collaboratively in course design and to teach interdisciplinary and topical courses in this program. For additional information about the position and to complete the online application, candidates are directed to <https://jobs.belmont.edu>

An electronic version of a Cover Letter, Curriculum Vitae, Teaching Philosophy, Research Statement describing a list of undergraduate research projects, and a List of Three References with contact information (phone and email) must be attached in order to complete the online application.

Belmont University seeks to attract and retain highly qualified faculty and staff that share the University's values and will contribute to its mission and vision to be a leader among teaching universities bringing together the best of liberal arts and professional education in a Christian community of learning and service. During the application process, applicants will be asked to attach a response to Belmont's mission, vision, and values statements, articulating how the candidate's knowledge, experience, and beliefs have prepared him/her to contribute to a Christian community of learning and service and give a brief statement of teaching philosophy.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.