

The Department of Biological Sciences at Vanderbilt University seeks a highly motivated candidate with a strong commitment to undergraduate education and a Ph.D. in Biological Sciences, or a related discipline, to fill a non-tenure track, full-time instructional faculty position for AY 2019-2020.

The successful candidate is expected to have a history of undergraduate instruction and mentoring and a demonstrated commitment to fostering an inclusive instructional environment. Preferred qualifications include ability to teach in our Introductory Biology laboratory and to provide additional instructional support for the Introductory Biology lecture course in the department (<https://as.vanderbilt.edu/biosci/>). Initial appointment will be for one year with the possibility of 3-year re-appointments following.

Click here to apply: <http://apply.interfolio.com/59785> and then click the Apply Now button.

During the process, the system will prompt you to upload a cover letter that summarizes teaching interests and experiences and that includes the names of three references. The system will also ask you to upload your curriculum vitae and three of your most recent evaluations, if available. You'll also be asked to enter your current and past employment and your degrees.

Applications will be accepted through March 14, 2019.

Vanderbilt University has a strong institutional commitment to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of faculty. Minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and members of other underrepresented groups, in particular, are encouraged to apply.